News this week

We've had a super week here: our lunchtime supervisors report that children are playing so well together and there are many examples of older children supporting our newest recruits in Owl class. In school, our oldest children have been studying hearts and finding out how they work, and Kestrels have been on a trip to Puzzlewood to support their reading on enchanted woods! Next week everyone will go to Nature in Art near Gloucester for a day's art programme: you will have received a letter already about the trip next Wednesday (Owls and Kestrels) and Thursday (Buzzards and Hawks). Please provide permission for this trip and pay please the voluntary contribution of £4 by Friday.

We can't take your child out of school without permission so please remember to use parentpay for this. This saves office staff time in chasing up parents who we don't have permission for.

Many thanks,

Dave Poad

Sparrowhawks studying hearts this week.

Kestrels had lots of fun at Puzzlewood.

Owls were busy using outside construction to build a stage. They put on a lovely performance and worked really well together.

Children were able to try beetroot grown in the school allotment this week.
